Some Picturesque Costumes Worn
By Drowsy Women.

noon Tea and Dinners.

Copyright 1889.

Here is a dress that pretty Mrs. Marie Nevins Blaine wore on the piazza of the Brighton Hotel as she slipped a water lily and looked the picture of trim simplicity.

The skirt is of the palest gray-green wash silk, with a flounce of dark green and white embroidery reaching almost to the knees; the skirt itself is gathered full and hangs straight all around without a hint of tulle or ruffles, being absolutely flat in the back without as much as a mark to show the seam.

The bodice is of the same material, with a wide shirred belt of the material. Old fashioned white silk knitted mitts are the only excuse for gloves worn. On her smoothly dressed blond hair coiled low on the back of her small head she wears a little turban of gray-green straw trimmed in the back with upright loops of intermingled dark green and white ribbons.

At her waist is fastened by a silver buckle a long cluster of golden beads, and dangles. With her eyes on the surf rolling in on the beach she rises, pushes back her chair and draws about her shoulders a pale butterfly yellow cashmere shawl with silk embroidery and a deep knotted fringe of the style of the last generation.

Over at the Manhattan Rose Coghlan looks like our Jean in her best clothes as she walks the beach in a little blue and scarlet seashore gown. The accordion plated serge skirts are dark blue as is the snugly fitted, buttoned coat with large pockets set on very far back and flushed with blue and red enameled buttons. Crossing in broad folds from behind the knees, the skirt is of crimson satin, and a red-winged blackbird perches on the narrow-trimmed blue sailor hat with down and tail pointing forward.

On a piratical looking black steam yacht which darted in and out among the sailing craft to view the races of the Atlantic Yacht Club off Bay Ridge last week was a young lady, "young" and "three bells" and "for and" and "aft" and "three bells" and "a whole and breeze" as if she was born on salt water. This nautical young person, leaning over the rail, glanced at her in a pretty little yachting frock that was both odd and effective. Navy blue lake of Wright composed the plaited under-skirt and the loose blouse waist which turned back from the neck in broad revers faced with baby blue. The inside of the pale blue washing silk was lined close across the throat and embroidered with an anchor in dark blue floss. A dark blue foulard scarf dotted with baby blue spots was knotted under the blouse revers and the waist was cinched by a belt with silver buckle. Over the short chestnut curls was tied a flat dark blue serge hat laid in narrow plaits radiating outward from the crown and trimmed with a bunch of baby blue ribbons. In her hands, prettily gloved with dark blue silk, she held her field glass.

Among the throngs of gaily dressed men and women who frequent the Sheepshead Bay races one may see many of the most charming fashions of the season. On Blackburn carried off the Zephyr stakes, sat a slender young woman whose hat of Milan braid, the straw, and a deep pink yellow by exposed to the sun, set off her brilliant brunette coloring. The flaring pale blue brim was lined with a soft, old-fashioned shade of green, and a butterfly bow of pale green mink ribbon being placed under this low enough to rest on the hair.

About the edge was gathered a deep valance of Irish point lace, yellow with green, which hung down in front, shading the eyes like the parasol hat of last season.

The outside of the brim was covered with the same lace laid flat, and trimmed with bunches of green bows. This hat had a neighbor equally attractive. Over a quantity of the dark hair drawn straight back from the forehead, plaited back low on the neck in smooth loops, was set a black openwork straw hat, almost covered by a wreath of fine white flowers and green ferns. A peasant bodice of fern green velvet and green silk gloves wrinkling at the wrist were component parts of a cool summer costume.

At the Country Club's reception on Thursday a pretty English girl looked so happy and girlishly merry and played so definitely with a fan that it was a pleasure to watch her. Her gown of pale green silk Chino silk was draped in long folds, with the skirt and overskirt falling into one immensely. The waist was drawn up in gathers about the neck and shoulders, and the full skirt was confined by a broad, each plumed in a point just under the bust. Crisp lawn plaitings finished neck and sleeves. A wide black tulle hat was brightened by pink ribbons, and the regular eyes beneath its brim looked out over a slight of butterfly printed on the dainty pearl-stocked fan.

She wore pale pink gloves and her Oxford ties showed pink ribbon bows.

One of the prettiest garden hats of the season was abroad in the old box-bordered walks of a stately house which overlooks the Hudson not far above Spuyten Duyck.

Its broad brim of yellow straw turned up on the left side and the roll was filled with field flowers—daisies, buttercups, poppies, pinks, yellow sunflowers, blue corn-flowers and trailing grasses. The brim was lined with green and green and green ribbons.

The gown worn by its owner was a rash of pink silk wide enough to reach almost to the armpits tied directly in front, the ends hanging down over the gown.

At a recent dinner given in honor of Ats. George M. Pullman, the table was decked with an artful arrangement of filled with bluebells and white roses. At each corner was a small blue Nankin bowl holding magnolias and blue and white bachelor's buttons. The hostess wore a gown of soft white China silk laid in folds across the bust, leaving a modest V.

A narrow ribbon sash tied just under the arms. The skirt fell straight to the floor and was embroidered with a pattern of bachelor's buttons about the bottom.

The sleeves were short and narrow, blue velvet ribbons encircled the neck and were threaded in the hair.

A variation on the old theme of two-sidedness was played by shy, pretty Miss Horse, the adopted daughter of the writer on Japan, a young woman whose Japanese name it is impossible to pronounce or remember. Striped black and white silk and black Spanish gimpure over black silk were the elements of her evening gown.

The black and white material was draped to form the left side of the bodice, crossing at the waist line to make the right side of the skirt, the lace alternating in office and position in a manner corresponding.

There was a black sash and a big bunch of daisy red roses.

A yellow haired woman showed some dexterity in holding her train out of the way as a small, dark, very loose, dancing other evening. This was partly owing to the luxuriously soft texture of the pale pinkish blue satin of which it was composed. The front of the skirt was of the same material, figured with long trailing garlands of morning glory blossoms, tinted and striped with pink, blue and white, in exquisite resemblance to the frail natural blossoms. The bodice was cut with open throat and short puffed sleeves and a thick ruffling of rose petals encircled the skirt hem.

In the same set danced a black eyed blonde whose fair tinted neck was partly covered by a full vest of black dotted lace held in place by polished revers of black velvet, starting from the shoulders and clasped by a buckle at the waist line.

Black lace mitts came only to the elbows, leaving a stretch of round arm between glove and throat puffed sleeve.

Afternoon tea has transferred itself to the country house and is just as much and just as much given to Browning and other recitations as during the winter.

A gown which looked well behind the urn was made of the palest shade of sea green crepe with one side of the over gown laid back from throat to hem in loose, irregular folds, rather Greek in their effect, showing a front beneath of pink and silver embroidery. Loose sleeves were finished by pink velvet cuffs and a velvet bow was tied under the last ear. A silver belt was studded with emeralds.

White crepe lace makes an exquisite negligee. It is included in the wardrobe of a June bride. Accordion-plated lace makes the wide, flaring sleeves which come just to the elbows. The loose front is composed of plaited lace, edged by oscades. About the waist comes a white silk sash with broad ends.

A pale lemon-tinted crepe is the material of a gown for the beautiful Mrs. Je-ness Miller. The round waist is confined by a belt of gray-green velvet, as near the shade of lemon leaves as it is possible to find, very wide and running up in the back in three points, almost to the shoulders. There are loose long sleeves. The under petticoat is some white material edged with fine plaiting and faced up to the knee with the crepe. Over this comes the skirt, long enough and full enough to allow of irregular loops caught at intervals over the front and hanging straight in the back. A broad lace collar turns over on the shoulders.

Miss Jones, Mrs. Miller's sister, wears a tea gown of dull blue crepe with angel sleeves, plaited front, embroidered revers, Medici collar, silver belt and sash about the hips.

ELLEN OSBORN.

HUNTING THE SEA-COW.

How This Rare and Interesting Animal
May Be Captured or Shot.

An account came the other day of the capture, off the Georgia coast, of a manatee or sea-cow. This was suggestive to me, as I have been in the South Florida of the St. Lucie river, Florida, and, desirous of a change of diet, Richards agreed to row me further up the fork, if I would only fish; now, you need not smile; it was a fair division of labor. For the black bass of the St. Lucie run from six to twelve pounds, and you will find a strong, heavy spinner and a braided line of about the gauge of a chalk line.

"It was too hot to even talk, and after a half hour's row of the crooked channel, skirting the edges of the tall reeds and grass, meeting with fair success, we concluded to return. However, as the fork seemed about to end, we determined to round a particularly high, dense point of grass and see what was on the other side, upon the principle that the really desirable fish are all just at the next bend." As we slowly turned the point we sld (I use the word advisedly) upon a pair of these enormous sea cows having a quiet feed. There was an awful spluttering and boiling of the water as it closed over their huge gray-brown backs and a heavy black water on the oars.

The boat rocked as if it had been a mere chip on the water, and I am free to admit I was too frightened to even use the rifle at my feet.

"While the manatee is indigenous to the entire St. Lucie, the South Fork is his favorite feeding ground. A few years ago they were quite plenty even in January. They have a tremendous wake as they plow along, which gradually becomes V-shaped as they near the surface of the water to blow. A rifle-ball sent into the apex of the V will cause a very satisfactory commotion."

"Sea-cows are taken alive by stretching a wide-meshed net of 'raslin' stuff' across the channel of their feeding-ground. One end of the net is securely fastened, while the other is simply buoyed in position. Meeting the obstruction the animal endeavors to push its way through, becomes entangled and ends a captive. Notwithstanding their great size and their weight of thousands of pounds, they are tender and must be promptly un-wound and carefully looked after.

"Some years ago we were out in a staked pen at our camp on Indian river that would cut out of your hand.
Bob Hoke and some of the boys built a well in the boat and took him to Key West, expecting to make a fortune, but the yellow fever and the manatee arrived at the same time. This was more of a 'draw' than they had barn' for, and they put for home."

Praying by Machinery.

They (the people of Himalayas) work a kind of machine which would be the price of a drink in America, and their mountain huts would be considered hard lines for the establishment of an American pig. Little, low huts, thatched with straw, and not much bigger than store boxes. They do most of their cooking out of doors.

The front of the hut, caught with their fingers, and worship Buddha in a half-civilized way. Some of them use the prayer-wheel, and this seems to be the only invention they have. The prayer-wheel consists of a metal box about as big around as one which holds black backing and about twice as deep.

Through it a wire is stuck and this is fastened into a handle a foot long. Inside the box there is a roll of prayers written in Tibetan characters and the worshiper rattles off prayers at the rate of a hundred a minute by giving the handle a twist and setting the box to rolling. Each roll records a prayer. Every prayer does away with one or more sins and puts a brick in the pavement which leads toward Heaven. - F. J. Carpenter's Letter in N. Y. World.

Many-Hued Oranges.

It is stated on what seems to be responsible authority that the brilliancy of our Florida blood oranges is due to the artificial introduction of coloring matter into them while growing. This is a suggestion that opens up wide and long vistas to the imagination. If oranges can be made red, why not blue, or terra cotta, or Nile green?

And if these things can be accomplished the orange will become a feature of decoration that will be calculated to cut out the rose and the lily, and even the chrysanthemum! Moreover, if oranges can be colored they can surely be flavored at will. Might it not as progress is made in modifying the plain, original orange, be possible to alcoholize the orange? The very suggestion is enough to start a boom in Florida. If it could be carried out—let us optimistically say when it is carried out—the orange will become the rival of the apple of the Garden of Eden in its seductions. - N. Y. Graphic.

little son was cured by S. S. S. of bad sores and ulcers, the result of a general breaking down of his health curable, but two bottles of Swift's Specific brought him out all right.

Mr. John King, of Jackson Miss., says that he was cured of rheumatism in his feet and legs by taking Swift's Specific. This was after he had tried many other remedies, both internal and external, and paid many doctor's bills.

Swift's Specific has saved me untold misery by relieving a partial paralysis in my left side. This was after I had been treated by best physicians in St. Louis and Chicago. The trouble was caused by some d. r. ingesment of my blood and has been corrected by S. S. S.

Swift's Specific cured him of E-zema on his limbs and body. He took only two small bottles.

A VERY PLUCKY LAD.

A Boy of Twelve Captures a Villain at the Point of a Pistol.

The little village of Garretts Landing, Chioct County, Ark., was the scene of the following event: A gentleman named Wilson, a resident of a short distance out of the village, had occasion on a certain morning to drive to a neighboring town, taking with him his wife and leaving the house in charge of his daughter, Ella, aged fifteen, and son Henry, a lad of but twelve years.

Henry was absent two or three hours in the morning during the day, gathering fuel, and on his approaching the house, with a huge bundle of sticks in his arms he saw a tall, stout and coarsely-dressed colored man jump from the kitchen-window and start on a full run for a piece of woods several hundred yards to the east of the house. Suspicious of some evil he had dropped his wood and made for the house where he found his sister bound hand and foot and gagged. Realizing the infamous outrage to which she had been subjected he sped to some neighbors and relating all he knew about it besought them to attend to his sister, and then rushed back to the house, secured a revolver and dashed boldly after the villain.

Some men who had heard his story armed themselves and preceded in the direction taken by the colored man, but Henry had got a fair start and went on as fast as possible. The man soon lost sight of him, and after searching the woods several hours in vain returned to the house and anxiously awaited the return of the boy. It was not until sundown that the little hero came in sight. He had captured the rascal and was driving him toward the village at the point of the revolver.

A purse was made up and given to the little fellow, who had the gratification of seeing his prisoner securely locked in the county jail. - Cor. Philadelphia Press.

COMMENCING WEDNESDAY, JULY 17th,

And continuing TEN DAYS, we will sell any suit of Clothing in our store for ONE-THIRD LESS than marked price. We must reduce our enormous stock, and we know how to do it. It's a heavy loss to us, but a nice gain to our friends who take advantage of it.

Every Suit is Marked in Plain Figures at just exactly what we have sold them, every one of them, during this season, and this is a fair and square offer. To test us bring any friend with you who has one of our fine $15.00 suits and see how gracefully we will sell it to you during this 1/3 off sale for a Ten Dollar Suit. Just listen to what a slaughter this will make:

Our Good	$ 5.00 Men's Suits now go for	$ 3.33
All-Wool $ 6.75 Suits now go for	$ 4.50
" " 7.50 " " " " " "	5.00
" " 10.00 " " " " " "	6.66
" " 12.00 " " " " " "	8.00
" " 15.00 " " " " " "	10.00
Tailor Made 18.00	12.00

This sale will beat our wonderful 1/3 price sale last year in wonderful values, because the base of prices is so far less now than then. Our regular $10.00 Suit now, was a $15.00 Suit then. In our "1/3 off" sale you buy it for $6.66—in the 1/3 price sale then it cost you $7.50, and so it is all the way through.

IN OUR SHOE DEPARTMENT we can and will undersell any concern in the country. You know how we can do it, since we bought the stock at about half its value, while other people paid $1.00 for $1.00. Then don't it look reasonable that we are able to undersell any person all the way from 20% to 50%? Well, the only question is, Will we do it? We most emphatically say we will, and if you don't believe it come and see for yourself. TERMS CASH. One price to all alike. No hawking or dickering.

Never Since Adam Ate the Apple, Has Clothing been So Low!

Times Are Changed,

AND WE ARE CHANGED WITH THEM.

Complete and Overwhelming Success

IN OUR SPRING BUSINESS!

Crowds of buyers attest the fact: Honest effort must receive public encouragement, and we have acquired strength in our progress. Owing to our long experience in the business we naturally have advantages over other buyers, which enable us to sell many articles of Clothing for less money than some dealers buy them for. And we desire to say right here that during our whole business experience we have never bought goods so low as our Spring Stock, and we are going to give our patrons the benefit of it. Suits we have heretofore sold for $20 we are going to sell for $15. Suits that are advertised as being great leaders for $12 to $14, we are selling for $10. We are not selling at half price, but an examination of the quality we are giving would think we are doing more than that. We are not only selling Clothing cheap, but Furnishing Goods are cut to the bottom. Look at the Pe-cal Shirt we offer for 50c, which can not be duplicated in this town for 50 cent more money. Suspenders worth 25c for 13c. Pure British Seamless Socks worth 25c for 12c per pair. WE MAKE SUITS TO ORDER FOR $13.25 and up, and guarantee a fit or no pay. A thousand samples where we make pants to order for $3 and guarantee a perfect fit.

For Constitutional Convention, Yes.
Mrs. John A. Logan has returned from Europe.
Senator Blackburn is said to be uneasy about his re-election. He has cause to be.
John P. Morton the veteran book-seller of Louisville, died Friday, aged 82 years.
The President made about twenty appointments Saturday, mostly consuls and collectors.
Ohio, New York, Virginia, Massachusetts, Mississippi and Kentucky all hold State elections this year.
Pearce & Ryan, the wholesale liquor dealers of Nashville, failed Friday for $103,000. Assets in accounts $130,000.
Russ Harrison, who is now in England, afforded the Queen an opportunity to dine with him one day last week.
The Lebanon Standard editorially brings out Ev. Gov. Proctor Knott as a candidate for senator. This thing is getting really interesting. Next!

The National Editorial Convention will meet in Detroit Aug. 27, and continue four days. Thirty states will be represented and 300 editors will attend.

Annie and Martha Young, two white girls aged respectively 18 and 20 years, were sentenced to a year in the penitentiary, at Paducah, the other day for stealing.

W. G. Montgomery was tried at Frankfort last week for the third time for killing his sweetheart, Miss Ione Kilton, and was given 19 years in the penitentiary.

Hypnotic is surely and steadily pressing legitimate to the wall, in the Haytian revolution, and it is only a question of time when the rebel leader will have control of the government.

The three Elizabethtown editors who were arrested for publishing incendiary articles, have been released, although the magistrate who tried Duncan and Stovall held them to be guilty.

A salt trust has been formed with a capital stock eleven millions. One hundred and thirty companies are in it. The live-stock interests of the country demand that this trust should be broken.

E. D. Hogan, the aeronaut, who made a recent ascent to try the newly invented airship, has not yet turned up and it is believed he came down at sea and was drowned.

The Mayfield Democrat is still writing about the late prize fight and gives 48 lines to the subject in its last issue, while the convention of Christian workers at Crittenden Springs is given but three lines.

Relying upon those able allies, Apathy and Lethargy, who are expected to keep Democrats at home, the Republicans are now claiming that they are going to elect their man Colson.

"A Graduate of Paris" is the title of Kentucky's Henry T. Stanton's latest book. It contains 166 pages, and had we not already read it we would have risked giving it a hearty endorsement, well knowing the ability of the gifted genius who conceived and wrote it, yet we must say that a perusal of it is most agreeably surprising.

No one who appreciates extra fine stories, devoid of slush, and written in the purest English, should fail to procure a copy of "A Graduate of Paris," W. H. Morrison, Washington, D. C., publisher. Price 25 cents.

THE CRAFT.

The Catlettsburg Leader has ceased to lead and its plant will be sold under the hammer to-day.
Neal Glenn, of the Madisonville Hustler, who has only been married about ten days, is already putting such paragraphs as this in his paper: "It is said that paper clothing will soon be fashion. A suit will cost but little and will last quite well."

The Park City Times prints a half-column editorial on "The Handsome Man." No one who knows John Gaines would ever mistake the article for an autobiographical sketch.
The Henderson News refused to publish anything about the Sullivan-Kilrain fight, and finds fault with all other newspapers that took it up.

Logan Curd has leased the Murray News to W. O. Wear.
W. P. Campbell, the pale and youthful blonde who represented the Mayfield Democrat at Owensboro, has secured an appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy and has sold his paper to Win. Havens.

The Race for Treasurer.

Republican campaign speakers are harping upon the Tate defalcation from every stump in the State and are determined to hold the Democratic party responsible for the failure of a thief who was detected and exposed by his own party. Since the Republicans, however, are forcing this issue, the Democratic State Committee has issued the following circular:

REPUBLICAN DEFAULTERS.

Hon. E. C. Faircloth, Secretary of the United States Treasury, in response to a resolution of the House of Representatives, reported that R. publican officials, had, from 1896 to 1898, defaulted for the enormous sum of $11,408,696.77. Below are a few cases culled from the report:

Arthur Guisot, Assistant Treasurer at New Orleans, La., defaulted for $564,212.07.
F. E. Spinner, United States Treasurer, $339,567.46.

A. J. Auzia, Marshal District of Kentucky, $40,545.06.
G. N. Carlton, designated depository at Little Rock, Ark., $223,671.70.

F. H. Snyder, Treasurer Branch Mint, San Francisco, Cal., $152,327.03.
Joshua F. Bailey, Collector Internal Revenue, Fourth District of New York, $204,203.00.

Louis B. Collins, Collector Internal Revenue, Third Louisiana District, $673,861.70.
B. C. Saunders, Collector of Customs, San Francisco, Cal., $92,256.42.

R. M. Kelly, Pension Agent for Kentucky, about $92,000, which was made up and paid by his friends.
In 1850 Benjamin D. Peck, State Treasurer of Maine, defaulted for about $40,000. His securities settled with the State through a committee of the Legislature, of which James G. Blaine was chairman, for $37,000. The case is fully reported in the reports of the Supreme Court of Maine. The R. publican Secretary of State of Oregon, embezzled $20,000 of the State's money, in 1870. Thus it will be seen that our pious Republican friends are pretty handy with their fingers when they get them into the public treasury. The Republicans of Maine seemed to be proud of their dishonest Treasurer, for they increased their majority in the very next State election.

A Liberal Proposition.

Hopkinsville is making an effort to establish a gymnasium for the boys and it is said that the girls of the village are heartily in favor of the move, so much so that they agree to get up an entertainment, ice cream supper, just anything to help raise the money. The girls over there are quoted as saying that the Hopkinsville boys "have" strength enough in their arms to help a girl over a stream." Shame on such boys! Clarksville boys never fail to embrace an opportunity, so if the Hopkinsville girls will only wire us at any moment we agree to come and pay the fare both ways.

We have upon our table that most complete work for the ladies of every household, Godley's Lady's Book, for August, 1889. It is always so full of good things for any number of them or even give a brief outline of them all. A charming frontispiece greets the eye upon opening the book; besides a handsome colored fashion plate, colored work designs, and black fashion plates. The reading matter is always of the purest. This magazine is one of the best, and should be in every family. Address Godley's Lady's Book, Philadelphia, Pa.

Deafness Can't be Cured by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; unless cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness, (caused by catarrh), that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

P. J. CHENEY & CO, Toledo, O.

The Knaucha river overflowed in the narrow valley at Parkersburg, W. Va., and the Johnstown disaster was repeated on a small scale last week. Sixteen persons were drowned and $500,000 worth of property destroyed. On Sunday a canal dam in the Hocking Valley, Ohio, gave way and flooded the country for 20 miles. No lives were reported lost, though much railway and other property was destroyed.

The Legislative Race.

Eq. H. B. Clark, the Republican nominee for Representative, will have no opposition from any source. Messrs. Boddie, Richardson and Garrett have all declined and there will be no Democrat put into the field before the election, which transpires less than two weeks hence. This being settled and there being no doubt as to who will be our next Representative, the KENTUCKIAN has a word or two to say about Mr. Clark.

For some years he has been a justice of the peace in the Bainbridge and Bellevue district and with this exception has never held office. He belongs to the most respectable element of his party and is a citizen of moral worth and solid character. He was not a candidate, but his party leaders had been taught a few rather severe lessons in the past and in casting about for a man who would satisfy the people, rather than the clique and bosses, E. q. Clark was found and brought out as a man possessing the necessary requirements. He is a moral man, a sober man, who votes against liquor whenever he gets a change, goes to church on Sunday and refuses to get down to the customary methods of electioneering by patronizing saloons. All of these things, it may be added, do not please some of his own party associates, but they suit the people and have made him strong with decent men everywhere, regarding loss of party affiliations. Having forced the dominant party to nominate a good man, the Democrats have accomplished about all they would have done by electing one of their own men and the KENTUCKIAN congratulates Christian county upon the prospects she has of being creditably represented in the next legislature. E. q. Clark is a staunch Republican, but he is not a blatant partisan of the rank-and-file type.

He will receive many complimentary votes from Democrats and will go to Frankfort as the representative of the whole people. The KENTUCKIAN feels confident he will appreciate the added importance of his position and will consider himself the chosen guardian of the interests of a constituency not limited to his own party ranks.

D. Howard Smith, Francis Reid, E. A. Graves, Geo. W. Norton, and Jno. P. Morton, five of Louisville's most prominent citizens died last week. The last named was a brother of the President of the L. & N. Railroad Company, and one of the wealthiest men in the State.

The Columbia Herald says Colson, the Republican candidate, was too young to be in the army, but he remained at home and "sheltered and fed soldiers of the Union and guided them to places of safety in time of danger." As Colson claims to have been born in 1862, he must have "fed" soldiers by sharing his milk bottle with them and "guided" them by the strength of his lungs.

The Ladies Delighted. The pleasant effect, and the perfect safety, with which ladies may use the liquid fruit laxative, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions make it their favorite remedy. It is pleasing to the eye and to the taste, gentle, yet effective in acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for August 1889. The completion and dedication of the national monument to the forefathers, at Plymouth, Mass., the cornerstone of which was laid thirty years ago, gives timeliness to the well-written and beautifully illustrated article on "The Pilgrim Fathers" which leads off this number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly. Arthur V. Abbott interestingly describes the new cantilever bridge over the Hudson River at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. "The Military Road of the Caucasus," by P. J. Popoff gives a picturesque account of this famous highway of Russia's Asian conquests. Eusebius Wilkinson, of the Navy, gives a valuable and authoritative account of "The United States Hydrographic Office; its Evolution its Aims and its Achievements." Other illustrated articles are: "An Old French City" (Bourges); "In the Aeolian Land"; "Torreque"; Louis XIV's great generals, etc. The short stories, illustrated poems, miscellaneas, essays, etc. are up to the first-class standard, and the new literary department begun in this number promises to be a valuable feature.

VERY SLIGHT CLEWS.
New Tom Marshall Once Upon a Time Detected a Burglar.

"Tom" Marshall was at one time the favorite hero of the bar in Kentucky. His acumen, his wit, his magnetic power over a jury, whether he happened to be drunk or sober, gave rise to numerous anecdotes about him. One of the least known is the following:

Marshall, after a prolonged holiday, found himself in a small inland town, the center of an amusing circle of newly-made friends who were ignorant of his real position or occupation. Chief among these was a young dentist, a hard-working, frugal fellow, who, by dint of strict economy, had saved a few hundred dollars. He was about to be married, had bought a small little house, and withdrew his money one day from the bank to pay for it.

The bargain was to be completed on the following day. He carried the money to his chamber, a small room back of his shop, and looking up the roll of bills in his secretary, went to bed.

About midnight he was awakened by the flash of a dark lantern in his face. He sprang up. A man was climbing out of the open window. His desk was open and rifled. He rushed upon the thief, who tried to slip away and escaped. The poor dentist, on the eve of his wedding day, was left dangerously wounded and penniless.

The county was searched for traces of the thief, but in vain. Marshall took a keen interest in the matter, questioned the policeman closely, and when they gave up in despair, asked permission to visit the dentist's room. After a close search, he found upon the floor a small pellet of burned paper, which he carried home. It was the wadding out of the thief's pistol. When examined, it proved to be half of a receipt for water-laid, signed by John Jones, town clerk.

The date was entire, but the name of the man paying his tax was torn off, excepting two letters, P— Marshall at once searched the records of the town clerk, and found on the given date Peter Scott had paid his water tax. Peter was arrested, and the money was found in his possession.

Marshall soon after left the village, followed by the blessings of the grateful dentist and his bride. Long afterward they discovered that their friend was the famous eccentric lawyer of Kentucky.

Another story which lingers in the gossip about the courts in the same State is of an old lawyer named Hunt, who, in the early part of this century, was known as "the sleuth-hound," so unerring was his pursuit of a criminal.

On one occasion he was employed to defend a poor colored porter in a bank, accused of robbing the vaults after the cashier was purged and tied.

The circumstantial evidence was complete against the negro, but Hunt was convinced of his innocence. The thief, too, had dropped a bit of cloth on the floor, apparently the torn lining of a hat, about which Hunt's keen scent detected a faint, peculiar perfume.

"The man who wore this is a tanner," he said to a detective. There was but one tannery within thirty miles. One of the owners was a dissipated young man. He was watched, and was soon detected in passing some of the stolen money. Being arrested, he confessed his guilt, and Hunt's client was saved.

Morgan's Men.

It is proposed to hold, at Winchester, a reunion of the members of Morgan's Cavalry who were imprisoned in Ohio or Pennsylvania, and the following invitation has been issued:

WINCHESTER, KY.—Dear Comrade: You are cordially invited to meet in Winchester, Clark county, Ky., on the 1st of August, 1889, the survivors of Gen. Morgan's command who, during the late war, were confined in the penitentiaries of Ohio and Pennsylvania. The Confederate soldiers and other citizens of our town and county join in this invitation, and will help to make you our honored guest. We will write to all whose address we can get. Say to any comrade in confinement who does not hear directly from us, that he is wanted.

Answer at once and say that you will come, that we may have quarters ready for you. Start so as to reach here on the 31st of July, that you may begin the day with us on the 1st of August.

Very truly yours,
J. T. TUCKER,
B. A. TRACY,
J. L. WHEELER,
L. HATHAWAY,
J. H. CROXTON,
Committee.

The mysterious "Jack the Ripper" turned up in London again the other night and cut the throat of his eighth victim. He escaped and wrote the police that he had seven more to kill before he surrendered.

The residence of Mr. J. W. Beasley, in the Montgomery district, together with nearly all of his household and kitchen furniture, was consumed by fire last Monday night. Mr. Beasley discovered the fire about midnight when the roof of his kitchen was falling in. It is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue. His loss is estimated to be about $1,500. Insurance about $1,000.—Caldwell Telephone.

The 50th ball of the series to be given by the Gracey Club, will be given at Gracey to-morrow evening. Good music will be engaged and a pleasant time is promised.

Common Sense
In the treatment of slight ailments would save a vast amount of sickness and misery. One of Ayer's Pills, taken after dinner, will assist Digestion; taken at night, will relieve Constipation; taken at any time, will correct irregularities of the Stomach and Bowels, stimulate the Liver, and cure Sick Headache. Ayer's Pills, as all know who use them, are a mild cathartic, pleasant to take, and always prompt and satisfactory in their results.

"I can recommend Ayer's Pills above all others, having long proved their value as a Cathartic for myself and family."—J. T. Hoos, Leithville, Pa.

Ayer's Pills have been in use in my family upwards of twenty years, to which I am very subject. I take a dose of Ayer's Pills and am always promptly relieved. I have used them in all the various stages, and in my family, they are used for bilious complaints and other disturbances with such good effect that we rarely, if ever, have to call a physician."—R. Messrs. Bogard & Hall, druggists, at Lafayette, have succeeded in building up a good trade in their line, although recently opened up. Their line of fresh drugs is complete in every particular and they are young men who know nothing else than to succeed. Dr. A. W. Williams, dentist, is practitioner for this new and enterprising firm.

Dr. P. C. Wootton, the old druggist, and practicing physician at Lafayette, Ky., desires to thank the people in and around that place for their past liberal patronage and respectfully solicit a continuance of same, promising to heal in future as in the past—sincerely, honestly and earnestly. He assures the public that he will retail drugs and medicines cheaper than similar houses in the surrounding cities and towns. An experience of 40 years in the business is a sufficient guarantee that the above statement can be relied upon. Mr. W. E. Anglen, an experienced practitioner, has been retained in that capacity.

CREAM OF NEWS.

The Criterion Dead.

The Criterion at Pembroke has suspended publication. Cause: want of patronage.

A Miscellaneous Collection.

The chief of police showed us a collection of fire arms etc. yesterday, taken from prisoners who after being released failed to call for their property for "various" reasons. It consisted of half a dozen pistols, several unlawful pocket knives, burglar's tools, razors, pipes, pictures, tinware, trunks, &c.

Carefully Looked After.

These personally conducted excursions which have long been a feature of the Chesapeake & Ohio R. R. must not be confounded with the "rush" excursions run from all over the country by other roads, where every one is expected to look out for himself and do the best he can. Great pains will be taken to make everyone as comfortable as can be, and ladies who desire to make the trip need have no fears about lack of attention.

A "Masher" Mashing Rock.

James I. Barbour, the man who eloped with Mrs. Malone, a married woman of Tennessee, and remained at Casky for some time, was tried before E. G. Tinsley Friday and entered a plea of guilty to the charge of adultery and was fined $20, which he is now working out on the rock pile at $100 a day. Barbour is very much enamored of the woman and says he is going to hunt her up again as soon as his time is out, as she still loves her and will not be separated from her.

An Old Plug.

White board makers were sawing up board timber from a large red oak on the Tucker farm, a few miles east of the city one day last week the saw struck a flinty substance, which upon examination was found to be a lost pin which had been driven into the heart of the tree forty years ago according to the ring estimate. A "Hoo doo" bag containing human hair, watermelon seed, a few pebbles and a few pieces of pine bark was also found. The seed were in perfect condition, but the "bag," on being removed, fell to pieces.

Identified and Held Over.

Chas. Smith and Jack White, the two men arrested last Wednesday night having in their possession six pairs of pants and other merchandise of a suspicious character, had an examining trial Thursday. Messrs. Horner & Parker, eliciting evidence at Seabury, were present, identified the goods as their property and the men as the two who were in their store on the day of the theft. The prisoners were held over and will be sent to Webster county to answer the charge of grand larceny.

Shot a Mule.

A mule hitched to Sam Holloway's wagon was shot by some one Saturday morning, who dropped the pistol and escaped in the crowd. Walter Whitlock and several other colored boys were arrested and tried before Judge Brashear but all managed to swear them selves clear of the charge. The Whitlock boy, who was caught with the pistol, said the shooting was done by "a town boy," who was loading the weapon when it went off accidentally. The boy ran and he picked up the pistol. The mule was not badly hurt, being shot in the breast. Chief Campbell has the pistol.

Bachelor Wins.

As was announced, the great race between Bachelor and Cleveland took place at the Driving Park Friday afternoon and was witnessed by about 200 people. Several thousand dollars changed hands on the result. A slight shower just before the race made the track a little heavy. Bachelor won the first and second heats, Cleveland the third, and Bachelor the fourth, winning the race easily. Bachelor is owned by L. L. Buckner and Cleveland by W. E. Rader. Each horse had his favorites and backers who when an opportunity afforded cheered lustily. Quite a pleasant afternoon was spent upon the grounds when the crowd returned to the city, where the "life" and "sands" of the race were discussed in full.

A Preacher Falls Dead.

A Bowling Green special of Friday night: Rev. Dennis Spurrer, after having gone through Mammoth Cave last night and when nearly out and down dropped dead, with heart failure. As he crossed the bottomless pit he fell and never moved afterward. His intention was to have preached here Sunday. Mr. Spurrer was born in Louisville in 1841 and was therefore 48 years old. Early in life he attached himself to the Methodist church and in 1861 joined the Louisville Conference. He was far above the average among the preachers of the church. He was stationed at different times at Hopkinsville, Henderson, Glasgow, Louisville and Bowling Green, going from the latter place to Owensboro. He was married last Wednesday at 2 p. m. to Mrs. Myra McJohnson and had gone to the Cave on a bridal tour.

MATRIMONIAL.

Mr. T. J. McReynolds, of Decatur, Ill., and Mrs. Mary Johnson, of Abilene, were married Thursday the 18th. They will reside until fall at the residence of the bride.

Married on the 11th instant, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. George Hendricks, Mr. Pinkney Boyd, only 17 years of age, and Miss Georgia Hendricks, only 15 years of age.—Caldwell Telephone.

DEATHS.

ANDERSON—At the residence of her parents on South Main street, at 12:30 p. m., yesterday, little Janie McHenry Anderson, only child of James H. and Annie Walter Anderson, aged 20 months. She had been sick for about a week with flux, which proved fatal in spite of all the best medical skill could do. Little Janie was an exceptionally bright and sweet child. She was the pet and idol of the household and her death falls with crushing weight upon her loving parents. She had just reached that interesting age when her childish prattle and toddling footsteps made the sweetest of music for the father and mother who loved her so much. But by some inscrutable dispensation of an all-wise Providence, their little darling has been taken from them. In the sorrow that has befallen them, they have the heart-felt sympathies of many friends.

The funeral services of the little one were held at the Baptist church yesterday afternoon by Rev. John O. Rust. Interment at the City Cemetery. A large concourse of friends attended the obsequies.

BRAME—At his residence near Casky, at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, July 22, Mack Brame, aged about 48 years. He had been ill about a week with flux. Mr. Brame was a substantial and influential farmer, universally respected and esteemed by his neighbors. He was a gallant Confederate soldier and has many old comrades in this section who remember him with the strongest feelings of affection. He leaves a family.

CHERRY—A three year-old daughter of Dr. Wm. Cherry, near Lafayette, died suddenly in Louisville Thursday while visiting friends there with her mother. The remains were brought home for interment Friday.

STILL—Infant child of John W. Still, near Hainbridge, Friday. Remains interred in the City Cemetery.

FOSTER—Infant child of D. E. Foster in the Antioch neighborhood, Friday aged 6 months.

COLOR.—Fannie Smith, near Beverly, Saturday, aged 17 years.

Infant of Blanch Rind, near Church Hill, Saturday night.

Stock for Sale.

At public auction on the first Monday in August, at 11 o'clock, at the Court House door, in Hopkinsville, Ky., 60 shares of the Bank of Hopkinsville, 15 shares of Crescent Milling Co., 500 shares of $1.25 of preferred stock of the Christian Co. Union Turnpike Co. 723 4.

The Cadz Telephone Line.

The telephone line to Cadz was finished Saturday night and at 6 o'clock Penny Turner had the pleasure of talking over it from the other end. Mr. Turner has long cherished the idea he has at last achieved through the success and the pluck, patience and progressive manifested by him in his calls for the highest commendation from all. It is a pity Hopkinsville has not more such workers as he. While the same amount of work and application from some energetic young man, the capitalists of the city might be induced to put some money into a street railway, now our greatest need besides waterworks. The new telephone line was run all day Sunday and the wires were kept hot with messages. The way stations are also connected. The line is 20 miles in length and is owned by a stock company.

Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal, in merit and efficiency, as a hair dressing, and for the prevention of baldness. It eradicates dandruff, keeps the scalp moist, clean and healthy, and gives vitality and color to weak, faded and gray hair. The most popular of toilet articles.

Judge Bennett Very Ill.

Judge Casswell Bennett, of the Court of Appeals, was taken with an attack of biliousness last week and on Thursday his condition became dangerous. The biliousness became more violent and painful and weakened him greatly, but a day or two ago he became better and has not since had a relapse. Judge Bennett married Miss Mollie Crumbrugh, of Edgelyville, who is well-known in this city, having relatives here whom she visited frequently before her marriage.

STORM FRIDAY NIGHT.

Two Barns Burned and Other Damages Done by Lightning.

A destructive thunder storm visited a portion of the county at 8 o'clock Friday evening, which was accompanied by blinding sheets of lightning and a perfect deluge of rain. The electrical display in the elements was grand and magnificent to behold. The timid trembled with fear and the awful crashes of thunder struck terror to many of the stoutest hearts.

In the city the only harm done was the killing of a horse belonging to Jerry Wilson, col. The telephone rattled and jingled, but were not injured.

A few miles from town a wire fence around a lot of Mr. J. O. Cushman's was struck, the current passing around the entire fence and splitting every post.

Mr. W. A. Lowry's barn on the Bowles place near Casky was struck by lightning and burned. It contained a lot of hay, two wagons and some implements. Loss about $500 with no insurance.

About three miles further away the barn of Mr. Rezin Elliott was also destroyed. Mr. Elliott heard the crash and in three or four minutes looked out and saw his barn in a blaze. It was quickly consumed with its contents. In it were 2,000 lbs. of hay, various farming implements, a reaper, a rockaway, and a large lot of harness and gear. Loss estimated at $600 with no insurance.

The lightning rod on W. B. Kennedy's house in the same vicinity was struck and rattled in a terrifying manner as the current passed down. Mr. Kennedy felt of the rod afterwards and found it hot enough to burn his hand.

Another house or barn further on towards Fairview also burned, but it has not been learned how it was.

At Mr. Doty's, on the P. A. Cushman place, a current of electricity passed down the chimney, knocking down several members of the family, but doing no serious damage.

The storm seems to have extended from a little west of town to the eastern line of the county at Fairview, though heavy rains are reported as far up as Trenton.

Hopkinsville to Send Her Usual Number of Excursions to Old Point.

The number of persons who have given in their names to go to the Sea shore Aug. 7th, compares favorably with former parties, and as new names are being added daily of our best people the Hopkinsville delegation will take the lead as usual. The Old Point excursions were originated from here, and the large numbers who have gone on these excursions actually shows that our people are not slow to take advantage of a trip which affords so much enjoyment for so little expenditure. Below is a list of some who intend taking the trip which will be added to daily: S. C. Mercer and two daughters, Judge H. R. Little, Sam Dicken, Jno. Mayson and wife, Miss Flora Trice, Miss Madge Fairleigh, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wilgus, T. E. Berley, Geo. O. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Handley, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pritchett, Miss Mamie Thompson, Miss Lelia Mills, Tom Petree, Jno. Lyne, Mr. Prof. M. L. Lipscomb, Hanson Dulin, Dr. W. B. Matthews, Dr. E. C. Anderson, Jno. Seargent, J. P. Bragg, C. P. Deering, W. R. Ely, Otis Brown, Joel McPherson, W. O. Harlow, Wm. Grable, J. W. McGehee, R. S. McGee, Hugh McGee, J. W. Wood, J. N. Childress, Robt. Mason, E. L. Wilkins, E. F. Gillum, a party of several from Cadz, and many others from the county.

Remember it is very necessary for you to give in your name in order that proper provisions can be made for your comfort. Mr. T. E. Bartley, Hopkinsville, will assign you sleeping car berth upon application.

Knights of Honor.

We are glad to learn that Mr. W. F. Randle, State Deputy G. D., is meeting with merited success. He will on Tuesday 30th inst., organize a Lodge at Trenton, Ky., and the citizens of Pembroke are working up an application for a charter for a Lodge at that place.

With the receipt of this order has been made in the United States in the past 16 years, the wonder is that every man of moderate income does not apply for admittance into its ranks. The Lodge at Hopkinsville is composed of some of our best citizens both in the city and country. It seems to us that the membership of this Lodge should be at least four fold greater when we take into consideration the benefits that have been paid to the widows and orphans of its deceased members. We predict a forward movement under Mr. Randle's work.

WATCH OUR ADVERTISEMENTS!

WATCH IT CLOSE!!!

DON'T LET A BARGAIN GET AWAY.

IKE LIPSTINE.

Are you waiting until they are all gone and then console yourself with the belief that you did not need one in the first place.

Well, it is simply miraculous how the goods on our Bargain Counter disappear and still we have plenty left. If a man would offer you a $10 gold piece for $2 and you were certain it was not counterfeit you would think it cheap, even if you were afraid he had a string tied to it. Well, if we offer you a line of Clothes for $2.90, worth $15, and you are sure they are genuine and know a thing you would buy it. Well, if so, come right on down to our store, corner 9th and Main, and you will be surprised.

We are still at the same place and expect to be for many days to come. But we do not expect to carry any more clothing, therefore it must go. Respectfully,

N. B. Shyer.
